Smart update mechanism for the App

The Leviy App, available for both iOS and Android, has been provided with a smart new update mechanism. This will enable all installations will be quickly provided with the latest version of the App, including its newest features. Both you and us are no longer reliant on the reviews from Google and Apple, nor on the moment a device or a user installs the app. This will decrease the number of versions we will publish through the store, this will only be necessary with updates from Android or iOS, but we will be updating our features more often and faster than that.

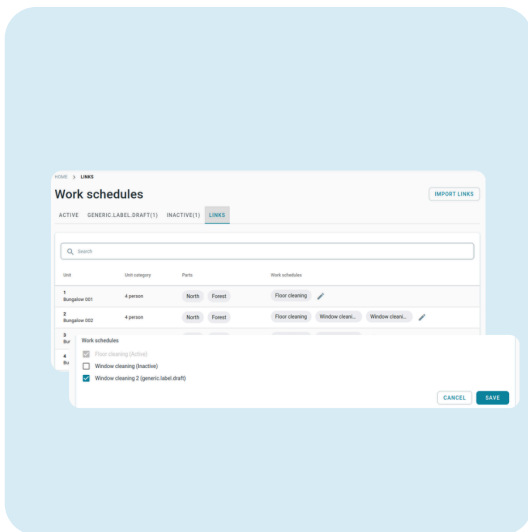

This will create consistency and clarity on the work floor, quickly phasing out any bugs and allowing everyone to utilise new functionalities immediately. The only thing the end-user will notice from this mechanism is a very brief progress indicator at startup and a potential update indicator during use. The App will typically implement updates silently in the background without being noticed.

Extra newsletter

Due to the fact that we have implemented a large number of smaller improvements in the past period, this newsletter is shorter than usual. Also, next week an extra newsletter will be sent out in which we will share a new valuable functionality. Keep an eye on your mailbox so you don't miss the news next week! 📧

From now on all emails will be sent from no-reply@leviy.com

See you next release!
